

Dear Volunteers, Thank You!

The United States Conference on AIDS (USCA) has had a long and diverse history. From its exotic locations to ground breaking plenary sessions, change has been a constant to remain in the forefront of issues challenging our prevention and care continuum. However, in its 20th Anniversary, the role of dedicated Volunteers continues to be paramount in the staging of USCA. More than 200 civic-minded people devote countless hours, to ensure that the conference's attendees have a unique and memorable experiences each year.

Their stories and reasons for serving as a Volunteer differ for many. Yet, their desire to ensure an unforgettable conference experience is the force behind the largest HIV/AIDS gathering in the US. This year more than 200 persons will answer the call to serve as a Volunteer. We take this moment to salute the 2016 USCA Volunteers who have answered the call - Thank You!
